From the company's first disposal-magnesium MotoMag wheel to its current crop of BMX, mountains, and bike coating, the Mongoose name was synonymous with cycling performance. Mongoose is built specifically for rider, which is why the company's BMX designers aren't wasting time watching reruns on ESPN2. Instead, they're still testing their new designs in the park, on the track, and on the hill. This ongoing experience is what drives Mongoose to cook up things like the top tube Front Porch, which allows you to fine-tune the touch on Black Diamond Series bike mountain, or freeride suspension technology, which eliminates bob pedals and gives a super-efficient suspension. Mongoose bikes don't just push the boundaries; to set new ones.
